ASTHMA.

IN CURB

See rea arks on the nature of asthma, in my loctures. The patient requires the inhaling tube, supporter, shoulder braces, and medicines. The medicines I give are cathartic pils, nervine iloiment, expectorant, pulmonary baleam, cough pills, humor corrector, and pain killer, and anti-bilious mixture, and, if very weak, I give the tube—one, or all, as they agree and help the patient. Burning saltpetts paper in the patient's room or inhaling ether during the fits, or snoking stramocium leaves, will usually ston relieve or pievent the fits. During the fits, the patient cannot use the tube, or rarely can be weat the supporter or braces; all must be loose about him. When the fits are off, use the tube and medicines faithfully and use all the other medicines as directed. If sour semach, and much wind on the stomach, take the anti-despeptic mixture; avoit all hearty suppers, and anything you know fissgrees; bathe, go out in the open air as much as possible, observe the rules of the dict precedited for consumption, and the same rules for drink.

it is less curable, but yet I have seen it perfectly cured at sixty and upperd.

THEGAT AFFECTIONS.

1088 OF VOICE AND HOAREMINES, WITH SLIGHT OR OCCASIONAL COUCH, AND GHEAT WEARNESS OF VOICE AND FATIGUE WHEN TAIRING.

This terrible disease occurs often in costive, sedentary, and dyspeptic people, and those who with these habits also use the voice very much, as clergymen, invyers, teachers, iccturers, &c.; those who talk a great deal, particularly these who sing commelerably and exert the voice greatly, especially before large assemblies, and in heated rooms. In most cases we notice swell-d tousils and much enlarged palate and in a very large majority of these throat diseases, I find. If they are of long standing, that the larges are also affected, and always so, if the patient is highly predisposed to consumption by family tain, &c. In some cases we find caronic catarrh, in aggrevated forms, accompany these diseases.

CURE OF THROAT DISEASES, FRO.

[See remarks in my Lectures.]

If the tursile are enormously calarged, a portion of each may be cut away, and the rame with the palate; but if not consilirably enlarged, the tunsils or palate do not require to be cut off. The palatest should wear supporter and braces; if a cough, use the inhaling tube; keep the stomach in perfect order—neither can not disease any thing that disagree. This disease is often incided, and always aggravated, by any form of oye priss. Its permanent ours is impossible, unless tandyspeptia is cured or greatly alleviated. It is, in a vast many cases, and nearly sill, produced by skin diseases, which settles on the threat and windripe O ten this humor follows down the guilet to the stomach, and very often extends down the windpipe into the large. The medicines I give are exthartic pills, service, fludgert, humor correctorand pain killer, and anti billows mixture and tonic, and if a cough, I use the cherry pulmonic balsam, cough gills, etc., as in consumption. Observe the rules of dist prescribed for consumption. Observe the rules of dist pres during sleep. Rathe freely all over as directed in consumption, and especially be the the back of the neck and throat keely in very cold water every morning; besides, wash the inside of the throat, palate, etc., with the tonic wash, as directed. Chew often a little nutgall, and swallow the juice. Put very little dress about the throat, and do not cover the mouth when you go out, but take the free, fresh sir delly on and in the throat, no matter how cold, after you are accustomed to it, but be excellent affirst rot to do so if it injures you. Avoid all crowded assemblases of all sorts. Even going to church, if much heated, is very bad for you, especially if heated or crowded. Never go there at night.

Observe all the rules of dist prescribed for the dyspeptic and consumptive. Avoid great excitement of all kinds, meated or paysical, or long continued study, take regular aleep, avoid sitting up at nighter watching with the sick. Use the voice as little as possible, and constantly take long, full breaths, so as to keep the chest perfectly expansed, and thus prevent diseased lungs. Avoid on up, cold night sir.

pamed, and thus prevent diseased lungs. Avoid damp, cold night air.

HEART DISEASES.

Consumption itself hardly excites more terror than heart diseases, as they are, by ordinary practice, rarely cured, or even an attempt made to do it. The patient is most usually let to his fate, overwholmed with the most terribis forebodings. In his own and in the fear of his friends he dies daily. These diseases are exceedingly manageable, and curable in nearly alleases. Even ossification of the heart, in its commoncement, may be stopped. Trouble about the heart is known by the patient experiencing to much or too hard beating; palpitation, or irregular beating; stoppage of the heart at times; at others it is instantly excited by fear, anxiety, sudden news, good or bad, alarms of all kinds, short breathing, pulpitation on unusual exercise, going up hill, up stairs, etc, not able sometimes to lie down, discurbed sleep, starting in eleep awaking in fright, confusion on armsing, and trembling all over on awaking, strange feelings in different parts, an irrepressible feeling of alarm and foreboding, etc., when first awakened from aleey, and is may be some maments before the heart and circulation become free. At times the heart begins to flutter, and seems aftered to turn itself over. At other times must severe pain is felt in or about the heart.

circulation become free. At times the heart begins to flutter, and seems alroat to turn itself over. At other times must severe pain is felt in or about the heart.

It is a singular fact, but true as far as I know, that I am the first physiciae, and the only physician, who have ever treated or now treats heart diseases. It was the part of the most gratifying character. In more than 2,000 cases of heart trouble, I have to have dedge of ever loning five cases. In resting heart diseases I advise the use of anable while apporter (unless the person is very short and fleshy), shoulder braces are indispensable. Do all to emlarge the chest, as directed in my loctures. Sit, write, as direct, only at high docks, so as not to stoop at all. Expead the chest by long, full breaths constantly but begin carefully. I give catherite pils, and advise the use of them every night regularly. Even when used for years, they will not is jure, but constantly protect the heart. For a time I give humor corrector, pain willer, sod anti-billous mixture, and if there is pain use the liminent. Above all, use the heart corrector. It usually gives insignat relief in sudden attacks, and may be used whenever the heart is excited. Takon regularly at bed time, it carries the patient anderly through the night in old people it is a rue life-preserver. If there is dryspepsia and sour stomach, use the anti-dyspeptic mixture until free of dyspeptic as mytoms. It is impossable to say too much on the subject of diet. What I have to say on diet to consumptives amplies tenfold to patients who have disease of the heart. Avoid all suppers or late meals. You should not eat snything after dinner, or only a slight piece of bread with a little outler. Never eat a hearty meal on any pretext whatever. Fat very little meat, and that well cooked, very tender, and eat deliberately. Avoid all feats of strength, or gress exertion of any kind—any great, unusual or sudden effort, either mental or physical. Avoid all geat assemblages—charches, thearters, concerts, crowds.

DESPERSIA
See remarks on this disease in my lectures.

It often leads to consumption, and often brings on asthma, heart diseases, sick hearache, chronic diarrhees, &c. It is often produced by contiveness, and womb and kidney complaints. It often produces chronic diarrhees, &c., and always aggravates it—often causes and always aggravates it—often causes and always aggravates it—often causes and always aggravates the rules for dist, before mentioned, also bathing air, and exercise and consult me at once personally or by letter. You may rely on a cure, though of years standing. In twelve thousand cause I have treated I have never known a foliute of cure when the patient makes a faithful and continued use of remadies.

LIVER COMPLAINT

Lavery corable indeed it is known by swelling and pain in the right side, short breath, basky cough, dyapepsia, very costive or diarrhora, denraved appetite clay-colored stools, and bad state of the bead, periodical sick headsche, &c., &c. The patient should wear shoulder braces and supporters, take catharite alls, nervine, humor corrector, pain killer and anti-bitious mixture, and universal tome. Use homent in case of pain, and wear a wet cloth over the right side. If yypepsis, diarrhoma, &c., nice ther edicines mentioned for the accomplaints in this Guide. Observe the rules of diet mentioned for consumptives and days openies. Bathe treety and take plenty of freeh air and exercise, and you will soon have a good liver.

of freeh air and exercise, and you will soon have a good liver.

COSTIVENESS.

Many persons suffer from constipation, often going for days without a passage. I hardly know any disease more perfectly curable. (For effects of costiveness or slow bowels, see remarks in * y lectures.) The following are always aggravated, and often produced by costiveness; headache sick beadache, contusion in the head, palsy, apoplexy, throat diseases, consumption, bleeding lungs, heart diseases, dyapepsia, liver complaints, piles skin diseases, and, in fact, nearly every disease to which flesh is heir, is aggravated by costiveness.

To cure costiveness, wear a supporter; take cathartic pills, acti bilit a mixture, and the universal tonic, and if any other diseases are present use medicines meatical for them. Observe the rules of dist directed for cursumptives and dyspeptics. Eat bran bread and wheaten grits, and any food you know keeps the boxels free, but the supporter and cathartic pills will soon pat all right. These remedies have permanently and perfectly cured constipation of years stanting. Persevere in using remedies until well

HEADACHE.

RUSH OF BIOOD TO THE HEAD RICK HEADACHE, PERSONICAL HEADACHE &c.

Headache and rush of blood to the head are often caused by using the eyes too much, and great mental efforts when weak. In femiles all diseases of the womb will often induce a rush of blood to the head. The stappings of the menthly sickness at the turn of life, and at any perior of life, often produces a rush or blood to the head. Periodical sick headaches to ten arise from obstructions of the gall bladder by gall-stones in it. (3 eremanks in my Lectures, etc.) Any heart obstruction is any to induce apoplectic rush of blood to the head, etc.

Costiveness is a common cause of headache. There is a close sympathy between the head and the stomach, and indigestion, sour stomach, food lying heavy, etc. cause headache. Ascertain, if possible, what the cause is, and remove it by the proper remedies.

SKIN DISEASES.

CANCER, ETC.

These diseases of all binds are, in ninety-nine cases out of a bandred, curable by pursuing, for a longer or shorter time, the use of the remedies. (See remarks on these in my Lectures.) Sait rheum, scald head, tetler, hives, pimples on the face, and a great many other varieties (there are often two or three kinds can one person), are most generally curable. The medicines are, cathartic pills, constantly used till well, also take nervine, humor corrector, depurative syrup; use for months till well.

Observe the rules of diet directed for consumptives; use free bathing and fresh sir. If other diseases are present, use what medicines are cirected for them. The tetter ointment will be found most valuable in all cases of itching, and will soon cure it

SCROPULA, OR KING'S EVIL.

This truly unpleasant, and in many cases apparently incurable disease, may be usually greatly relieved, and its many cases entirely cured, in from one month to a year, even when in its first forms. See my Lectures.

The remedies are, bathing freely, if postiole, in cold sait water; wear supporter and shoulder braces, if over 15 years old, and take cathartic pills, depurative syrup, humor corrector, and universal traic. The anti-scrothous plaster may also be used, if hunches or other sores are present. Also take free, fresh cantry sir, and often sea air, if the largs are not affected—full, free breathing in cold air. Observe the rules of diet directed for dyspepties.

CATARRH.

This is often a most obstituate and disagreeable, and even dangerous disease—often leads to loss of smell, in pairs the hearing, weakers the voice, and causes great discharges from the heed and nose, of en extremely offencive ve hen not suspected to be so by the patient. (See my remarks on this subject in my Lectures).

CATARRH.

This is often a most obstituate and disagreeable, and even hearing weakers and daily many consequence of the many contents and sho en the throat, front of the chest and spine, between the shoulders. &c., until relief is had. If soutive, give castor oil, &c. Never despair in these cases. The cure is certain.

DO NOT DELAY.

It is rare for me to see a patient until he has had a cough one to two years, or even three years. If I am consulted during the first month, in nearly every case, I succeed in relieving the cough in four or five weeks, and generally in a much shorter time. Each month of delay adds to the time required for cure, if cure be effected at all, and greatly increases the danger or the disease. No cuph should be allowed to go more than one week before full measures should be taken for its cure.

Do not be led off by such fatti delusions as I have mentioned; read this guide book, and strictly and instantly follow its teachings, and most par instantly if any of your own blood-relations have died of consumption.

PHYSICIANS SHOULD TREPARE TREIT OWN REMEDIES.

Fifty pears ago it was the almost universal custom of all physicians the prepare his own medicines. There a physician who could not prepare his own medicines. There applyses an whole the healing art, and unworthy the name of physician. Physicians then knew that as much science, shall and art could be displayed in a medical preparation as in a master painting or piece of soulpture.

My father and grandfather were physicians of great eminence and usefulness, and, with myself, have continued the practice of medicine in an unbroken line of 105 years. They image for entire in an unbroken into of 105 years. They image for entire in an unbroken into of 105 years. They image the to prepare my own remedies, and severe, and all causes had counteracting agents—nothing final and completent but the word of God himself. Physicians may be exalted to much renown by simply being able to name a disease; but the great giony of a physician is to cure his patient.

DE. S. S. FITCH'S VEGETABLE CATHARTIC FILLS. Let it be distinctly understood that this pill will not cure all diseases. But for sloggish bowels, temporary or rabitual costiveress, readling from weak bowels, torpid liver, impaired digestion, or other causes, they are the most perfect pill ever compounded. They are relid and gentle in their operation, occasioning no sickness, no pain, and may be taken with safety and comfort by the most delicate, while they are efficient with the most robust.

The great evil experienced by everybody in taking crofinary drastic exthartic medicine, is the costiveness and prostration of the bowels which follows. These pills do not produce this effect. They invigorate and strengthen the bowels, effecting a perfectly healthy condition and action.

Fitch has treated, he has never lost twenty, and one of the leading remedies employed by him in its treatment, is this beautiful, almost magical preparation, the HEART CORRECTOR.

Among the thousands who have used it, not one can be found who will not speak of it in terms of the highest wraiss. We beg these who are suffering from any irregularity in the action of the heart to try this remedy. See page 25. "Heart Corrector."

Levi B'anchard, of Albion, Michigan, in a letter dated January 31, 1851, peaking of the heart corrector, says:—

"Your heart cerrector is one o' the gratest medicines that ever was brought into this place, and many value it as they do their lives."

Farl, of Franklin, netlong since sail to me, "Sir, you are almost a miracle in the history of disease." Others have expressed themselves in the same manner. In conclusion, I will say, no man feels a deeper interest in consumptives than myself. To all such I hunestly and conscientiously would say, "Try Dr. Fitch's remedies—try them faithfully; do not say you cannot follow his directions, but follow them perseveringly, and through the blessing of God you may yet live who would otherwise sisk into an early grave."

In publishing the above statement I believe I am doing my outy to an afflicted public, and to you, kind sir, as a brackecter; and it shall ever be my prayer that peace, prosperity and long life may be yours. With sincere regard, I remain yours truly, RODOLPHUS BARD.

CONSUMPTION IN AN ALVANCED STAGE CURED.

STERLING, Whiteside Co., Ill., Jan. 24, 1853.

Dr. S. S. Firm.—lear ir—I improve this opportunity in writing a few lines to you, and acknowledge my obligation to you for the great service that your medicine and advice bave been to me. When I was in New York last August to see you, I little thought I would ever again te as well as I am now. I let it New York the Monday following, in very feeble health; but I commenced taking your medicines, and in less than a week I felt like a new man, and continued improving in health. Four weeks afterward my health was so much improved that I left my friends in Western Pennsylvania for Illiants, and arrived here is hept-siber. My friends here were very much surprised to see me return, looking so well. Many of them teld me that they did not expect, when I left, that I would return, or that I would live till fall. I feel now perfectly well, with the exception of a tickling sensation in the lower part of my throat, or the upper part of my lungs, most of the time, which causes me to cough some. I think if I could get rid of this difficulty I should consider my self-matically well. I have fleshed up so that I say as heavy now as I have been for six years. My bewels are regular, and my specific mileling good. In fact, I feel all right, with the exception of this one difficulty. I believe you could not serve your fellow men be fer than by distributing your medicines and jooks, so that they may be made and the submitted and well defined case of contention in the long of the search of the large quantities of thick, yellow matter at times, and at others thin, bloody pheligm. He had a hard ecouph, raised large quantities of thick, yellow matter at times, and at others thin, bloogy helping.

You told me you could o had severe bronchitis, and my lun not so far gone that they could re you I did not expect to get well means might afford some relief cal remedies and medicines and it you I did not expect to get well, but means might afford some relief. I took call remedies and medicines. and in one was better. By improvement was very was very much reduced. I nave foliotions faithfully, and now have my good walk four and five miles a day with searc. I have more flesh and a more healthy our laws had for years; your treatment wrought an entire charge is my system of my former difficulties, excepting som uncomfortable feeling in my chest, which to hings of, had I not had a lung affective felt for several weeks past, and ho removed. My friends look upon me we have no bestvancy in saying I fiel that dence, I owe my life to IT S. S. Fitch, at express the gratitude I feel.
